

STATEMENT DC305

WALTER MARTIN, CRI, AND ROMAN CATHOLICISM

CRI and its president, Hank Hanegraaff, have consistently followed the policy of CRI's founder, the late Walter Martin, on Roman Catholicism — which is to point out what we believe to be errors of Catholic doctrine and practice, as well as those areas of common agreement between Catholicism and Protestantism. With Walter Martin, we recognize that a wide diversity of belief and practice exists among Roman Catholics worldwide, and that it would be unfair to characterize all of Catholicism or all Catholics as alike.

For further study on this subject, we recommend the following resources: Roman Catholics and Evangelicals: Agreements and Differences (Baker) by Norman Geisler and Ralph MacKenzie (B196/25.00), a three-part tape series by Walter Martin on Roman Catholicism (C108/18.00), and The Cult of the Virgin (Baker) by Elliot Miller and Kenneth Samples (B040/10.00).
